Longest Session in Nation's History Has Produced Much Legislation.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 15.—The longest session of congress in the history of the nation is about to be concluded. It is the first regular session of the 42d congress and was convened Descenber 1, 1913, and was heavin as a continuation of the special session convened a month after the inauguration of president Wilson. The work including that of the special session for tariff reform and income tax provisions, represents the insignative achievement of the first lemocratic congress since March 1, 1987. The chief enautments include the new currency law, satisfrat lesistation, repeal of the toll exemption provision for American constwins ships in the Panama canal, and the provision to build a government railroad in Alaska.

in the Panama canal, and the provision to build a government railroad in Alaska.

The congress was remarkable for the fact that in less than two years it had to deal with conditions arising from two foreign wars—the revolution in Mexico and the European conflict—and was on the verse of facing a war between the United States and Mexico. Both of these situations demanded emergency ingislation, some of which may have far reaching effect upon the future course of the nation in its foreign affairs.

Only one Break in Ranks.

As a rule the simoet cooperation between Democratic leaders in consteas and president Wilson has marked the session, sithough one notable broak occurred in the party over repeal of the tolks provision of the Panama canal act. This led to an alignment which placed the president and some of the sparty leaders on opposite sides. Among those who took issue with the chief executive being speaker Clark's defence of his opposition to repeal furnished one of the most speciacular climars in the history of the house.

The president appeared before joint sensions of the house.

War Caused Much Legislation.

Overshadowing much other important legislation were measures demanded by the extraordinary conditions precipitated by the war in Europe. Such legislation enacted or about to become law included the following measures:

War revenue law imposing special internal revenue law imposing special internal revenue taxes to aggressive approximate annual revenue of 198,-000,000 to offset estimated treasury deficit due in loss of customs receipts during the European war.

Amendment to Panama canal act admitting to American resistry fureign built slips of American resistry fureign built slips of American south American trade.

Emergency currency act permitting banks of national currency associations to lisus electrolisting notes up to its percent of their unimpaired capital and surplus, and making available to hanks of the country more than $1,000,000,000 of emergency currency.

Law creating in the treasury department a bureau of war risk insurance, appropriating $2,000,000 to insure ships of American registry against hearing of the European war.

Essolutions appropriating $2,250,000 for protection and transperiation of American citizens stranded in European war zones and authorizing the American files.

Appropriation of $1,000,000 for extra expense of diplematic and consular service in taking over embandes, legations and consular offices of warring nations in Europe.

Before these unforcesen conditions which demanded declaive action to cope with the European bitualian, congress had on its hands for most of the session the threatening Mexican imbroglio, which came to a climax in the seizure of Verserus Lasislanton growing out of the Sexican controversy was limited to the following:

Resolution expressing congress' jugitification of amplorment by the predident of armed farses of the United States to enforce demands for affronts and indignities against this nation and disclaiming any hastility to the Mexican solders and military refusees, and $500,000 for relief and transportation to the United States to enforce demands for affronts and indignities against this nation and $500,000 for relief and transportation to the United States to enforce demands for affronts and indignities against this nation and $500,000 for relief and transportation to the United Sources of local improvement laws, many measures relating to land entries, and the following:
